In July 2012, the struggle and hard work of our company was rewarded by the famous travel guide publisher Lonely Planet, by recommending the company at their newest Lonely Planet Nepal guide.

Founders and Owners

Nepal Social Treks and Expedition is the result of the joint contribution of Basu Dev Pandey and Ram Barakoti who first met at Tribhuvan University while they were students of Business Management.

Basu Dev Pandey

Basu Pandey is a source of inspiration to people in the Travel and Tourism field. With belief that no work is small or big at the start of journey to success, he started his struggle by working as a porter. Then, by gaining information about several travel routes, he established himself as a licensed guide. He had bigger dreams in life. He continued his higher studies by joining Tribhuvan University as a student of Business Management. He continued his journey and finally made his dream come true by establishing Nepal Social Treks and Expedition. He is a very hard working person and his hardship has rewarded his company with great significance in the Tourism sector. Basu is in charge of marketing and sales promotion, public relations and management of all administrative tasks for Nepal Social Treks & Expedition. To optimize the customer service and the working environment of our Team, he regularly leads international travel groups on adventures across Nepal, Tibet, Bhutan and India.

Ram Barakoti

Ram Barakoti started his career by involving in family business which was in some way related to the Tourism sector. He also acquired necessary skills of management by studying Business Management at Tribhuvan University. With the knowledge about different travel routes in Nepal and an inclination towards travelling, he opened Nepal Social Treks and Expedition by partnering with Basu Pandey. The talented and versatile man is now looking after marketing, contract negotiations and management of any general administrative procedure of Nepal Social Treks and Expeditions. He participates regularly on training courses for trekking, environmental sustainability, first aid and leadership development keeping the company informed with the newest development in the business and outdoor sector.

Top Guides

All our guides are officially licensed and have been trained by the Ministry of Culture, Tourism and Civil Aviation (MoCTCA) and by the Academy of Tourism and Hotel Management Nepal (NATHM). We have selected our guides by carefully examining the needs of our guests and on the basis of their expertise, experience, sense of judgment, patience and conversation level. All of our mountaineering, trekking, and cultural guides are experts in their respective fields. We strive to provide you with a guide who is local to the area you will be trekking in, so that you can have the best experience possible. They will also provide you with interesting facts about the Himalayan culture, history, and religion. All of our trekking and mountaineering guides are experienced in dealing with the effects of high altitude sickness and getting you acclimatized to the surrounding. The guides themselves don't undergo altitude sickness as we have chosen natives of the Himalayas to ensure that they take good care of you.

Best Support

We provide 24*7 service and try our best to answer all the emails from our clients as soon as possible. We are good at planning trips in the most effective manner. We practice ethical treatment of all our local porters and guides. Our porters and helpers during treks and mountaineering are physically fit and strong and can carry your bags easily throughout the trek. Most of them speak reasonable English. Our support team is insured, paid well, and fully supplied with the required latest mountaineering gears. Every two trekkers get one porter. If you are a sole trekker, there will be porter for each trekker. In the lodge treks, the maximum weight limit for a porter ranges between 25-30kg.
